

ABSTRACT

An improved restroom floor mat is presented, where the mat material is treated with a proprietary anti-microbial agent. The agent is refreshable with a water-based solution and makes the mat reusable for a limited number of times, maintaining its anti-microbial properties. An alternate embodiment is fully disposable, treated with the agent, and made out of low-cost blotter paper.